

The Sad Teacher

Oh what privilege to teach God's word
To share the best news that people ever heard.

Our teachers like David have God's word in their heart,
To share with others what God has to impart.

So teachers spend much time their lessons to prepare,
They read and they study with all love and all care.

Crafts for the kids, outlines for the grown,
Hours upon hours so the seed can be sown.

Then comes the first day and the time to meet,
The teacher's classroom is ready, all the students to greet.

But when the clock says 10 empty chairs all around,
So many stay away not to hear the Gospel sound.

The teacher is sad, all preparation in vain,
The people had other things with which to entertain.

The preacher too with much love and care,
Messages from the Word with which he has to share.

But many are too busy to come worship and serve,
And to learn of God's will and heaven deserve.

So please remember you teacher's hard work and sacrifice,
Come and hear the Good News of our Lord Jesus Christ!
